Regular Habits.
It is a good plan to have a regular time for reading. One accomplishes so much more in this way, and besides establishes a kind of intellectual habit that is a good thing in itself. In an hour, or even half an hour given regularly each day to reading, a great deal may be accomplished. Do not confine yourself to serious books. Alternate light with heavy reading, and do not attempt heavy reading when you are tired. Do not read merely to be amused. Treat your books as friend. Do not follow blindly the teachings of any book.

Cleaning Glass Vases.
Flower vases which have become cloudy and discolored should be cleaned with a mixture of vinegar and salt, poured in and well shaken about. A long piece of stiff wire, upon the end of which is a little pad of soft rag, should be poked into all the corners and crevices, and the vase then rinsed in warm water and dried with a good polishing cloth. Fly marks upon the gilt frames of pictures should be rubbed with half a lemon and then polished with a chamois leather.

Woman's Age.
A few years ago after a woman had passed thirty-five she was relegated to the fireside and she looked and felt old. She lived in her memory, and all the money that was spent for little frills and follies was given to her daughter; for mother, all was over. Suddenly woman awakened to the fact that after thirty-five she is at her best, and that her beauty need not fade unless she wishes it.—Home Life.

Their Likeness.
While Pat worked, Mike and Murphy painted a picture of a donkey's head on the back of his coat, thinking that they would have some fun out of him when he put on his coat to go home. Pat, as he reached for his coat, saw the painting and asked: "Which one of you fellows wiped your face on the back of my coat?"

Message of the Gulls.
Have you met a great sea gull beating leisurely up river, his wide-stretched wings upbearing him as if he were no heavier than a drifting flower petal? Perhaps the gulls do not come as far as Lewiston, but eight or ten miles down the river they are often to be seen. Who knows what they come for?—clams, very likely, or a chance to make fun of the landlubbers. But they always seem like a message from the sea—as if a wild gray wave had taken wing to tell us that there are places where the world is wide and wonderful, and we might see the beat of restless waters clear to the edge of the world.—Lewiston (Me.) Sun.

Beautiful Hand.
Two charming women were discussing one day what it is which constitutes beauty in the hand. They differed in opinion as much as the shape of the beautiful member whose merits they were discussing. A gentleman friend presented himself, and by common consent the question was referred to him. It was a delicate matter. He thought of Paris and the three goddesses. Glancing from one to the other of the beautiful white hands presented for his examination, he replied at last: "I give it up; the question is too hard for me. But ask the poor, and they will tell you the most beautiful hand in the world is the hand that gives."
